WESTERN HOTEL,

No. 228 MARKET STREET,

Sign of General Washington.

THE subscriber begs leave to inform his friends and the public, that he has taken that well known establishment in Market street, next door to the Pittsburgh Mail Stage Office, and lately occupied by Mr. George Yohe. To those who have been accustomed to resort to this house, it is unnecessary to point out its superior advantages. For the information of others we deem it necessary to state that its situation is central, high, healthy and convenient to business; an extensive range of back buildings, consisting of lodging rooms, afford a fine view of the city to the eastward, and admit a free and uninterrupted circulation of air—and what will give them a decided preference in the opinion of many, is the attachment thereto of balconies, so constructed as not only to afford pleasant promenades, but easy means of escape in the event of any necessity from any sudden alarm of fire. The great Western Stages start every morning from the door, and on the premises is one of the best Livery Stables in the city, conducted by Mr. John Tomlinson, where travellers' horses will be faithfully attended to. With these advantages, and some other improvements now making, added to his own unremitted exertions to please, the subscriber confidently hopes for, and very respectfully solicits a share of public patronage.

FRIDAY MORNING, JAN. 28, 1820.

TO THE CITIZENS OF PITTSBURGH.

DURING the present period of difficulty and distress, a number of individuals have conceived the idea of an Association which by concentrating and systematising the benevolence of our citizens, might serve to combine the relief with the useful employment of the poor. It is supposed that such an Association might at a moderate expense to each member, do much to alleviate the wants and sufferings of a large portion of the community, and at the same time, encourage a spirit of industry and economy. All those who are friendly to such an undertaking are particularly requested to attend at the Grand Jury Room of the Court house on Saturday evening, the 29th inst. 7 o'clock precisely.

MANY.

DREADFUL CONFLAGRATION.

It is in a state of utter distraction that we attempt to describe the horrors of the late conflagration. One half of Savannah is in ruins. We know not, and cannot enumerate the sufferers or the extent of our loss. The fire originated in the stables back of Mrs Platt's boarding house, and soon reached Baptist square. The fire-proof houses of Mr. Mungin, and the open square, stopped its progress in that direction. The fire reached the Bay on the corner of Barnard-street, sweeping the house on the next corner, occupied by Colonel Broom, and from thence extending down the Bay, taking the brick building occupied by us, with our printing establishment, the large brick auction store of George Schley, U. States branch Bank, the new brick auction stores on the corner of Bull-street, Pouyat's corner, Lottery office, Dickson & co's. store, Hunter's brick store, and Jones' wooden buildings on the corner of Harbersham-street, where its progress will probably be arrested. From the Bay it extended as far back as Broughton st. sweeping almost every thing. Both the Planters' and State Banks caught several times and were with difficulty saved. Andrew Low & co's brick store, colonel Shad's brick stores, Gibbon's buildings. the block of brick buildings belonging to the Presbyterian Church, judge M'Allister's brick house, the market, Wallen's range, Butler and White's rang, and in fact every thing between Broughton-st. and the Bay was destroyed. Many lives, it is said, were lost, but we cannot yet ascertain their names. It is supposed 400 houses were burned; many of them were partly cleared of their contents; but the property generally burned in the streets. It is presumed the loss cannot be much, if any, less than two millions of dollars. Many hundreds of families are literally naked in the streets—not even clothing was saved. Every printing office was burnt down. For ourselves, with the blessing of God, and the assistance of our friends, we saved a considerable portion of our type, and most valuable press. The auction stores in the city shared a similar fate. The city is still in flames, and when it will be got under no one knows. We have every reason to believe that its progress will extend no farther. It commenced this morning between 1 and 2 o'clock.

Another letter received in this City confirms the preceding, with this addition: the building in which was kept the Office of Discount and Deposit of the United States was amongst those destroyed, but the vault, which was a little separated from the main building, proved worthy of the confidence reposed in it, and all the books and papers were saved—nothing but the mere furniture of the Bank being destroyed. Nat. Int.

MISSISSIPPI EXPEDITION.

By the late accounts received from Prairie du Chein and St. Peters we learn that the barracks at the cantonement at St. Peters are erected and the troops comfortably quartered for the winter. They have commenced ploughing for the next year, and will probably raise sufficient for the support of the troops during the ensuing season. The climate is mild and pleasant—much more so than could be expected at 44 deg. 39 min. N. The soil is abundantly rich, and nature has prepared it for the plough Grass is also in great abundance and sufficient for any quantity of cattle.

The expense of this highly important and interesting expedition have been very small, but this circumstance ought not to lead the public to direct their attention to objects of no greater consequence, but which employ a much greater share of the public funds.

Several specimens of copper and iron ore have been found, and large quantities of both exist without doubt in the country.

"The navigation of the waters of the Ohio and Mississippi, has become a subject of great national importance. There are more than seventy steam boats employed on the Mississippi and Ohio rivers. We have a list of about seventy, and many are employed, which are not enrolled; the number is probably about seventy five. The tonnage of these vessels, as stated, affords but a very inadequate idea of their size. It should be recollected, that in measuring their tonnage, the measurement is taken below deck; but all the boats have what is called a house built above deck; this house is from 7 to 12 feet high, and of the same width with the deck of the boat, and is not taken into consideration in estimating tonnage. If the house was taken into consideration, the tonnage of a boat measuring by the present rules, 400 tons would probably measure 7 or 800 tons. There are few boats less than 200 tons, and few over 500; they will probably average 350 tons each: add the tonnage of the houses and they will not fall short of an average of 500 tons. These boats employ constantly, about 25 hands, including pilots, engineers, firemen, &c. each, making a total o 2500. The number of barges and keel boats over 20 tons is immense, and they employ a greater number of hands than any other craft, many of them being upwards of 100 tons, and manned with from 30 to 50 men they go down the river on the current and by rowing; but are obliged to ascend by polling up, as it is termed. Flats or Kentucky boats, also go down in large numbers at high water, and sold below for lumber. By the best data that can be obtained, it is estimated that 30,000 hands are employed in navigating the water of the Mississippi, Ohio and their tributary streams; and their numbers are constantly increasing in proportion to the rapid increase of the western population. Most of the boats, except flats, are obliged to stop at this place; and by far the greater part of the contracts relative to shipping seamen, repairing boats, freights, average and every other species of contract, usually termed maritime, and subject to admiralty jurisdiction, are either made or are to be enforced at this place." Lou. Pub. Ad.

Letter from James Riley, Esq. to the Editors of the Union, dated.

FORT WAYNE, (Indiana,) Nov. 24.

"Having concluded my surveys for this season, and wishing to view the country between the St Mary's and Missouri Rivers, to examine for myself the practicability of so uniting the Wabash with the Miami as to render intercourse by water safe and easy between the Ohio and lake Erie, through that channel, &c. I set out yesterday from Shanes Crossing, on the St. Mary's, and travelling through a district of good land, on or near the right bank of that River, forty miles, reached this place early in the evening; and early this morning I set off to look at the junction of the St. Joseph's and St. Mary's, which forms the Miami River.

The St. Joseph's River rising in Michigan Territory, runs southwesterly about 200 miles, receiving in its course several tributary streams; and the St. Mary's rising in Shelby county, Ohio, runs northwesterly more than 200 miles, including its meanderings—when forming a junction nearly from opposite points the river turns suddenly south and assumes the name of Miami of the Lakes, or as pronounced by the French Maume; then turning gradually round again, these congregated waters flow off in a northeast direction about two hundred miles, following the course of the river to the southwest end of Lake Erie.

Fort Wayne stands on a bluff just below the junction on the right bank of the Miami; its situation is admirable, chosen by a General in whom were united the greatest personal courage and intrepidity, and the most consummate skill and prudence in conducting and supporting an army. Amidst forests and morasses, separated from the inhabited parts of the country by a dreary and extensive wilderness; surrounded on all sides by hosts of savage enemies; flushed by a recent and great victory over the unfortunate Gen. St. Clair.

The gigantic mind of Gen. Wayne, created resources, as he went along, buffetting the cunning of his enemy, with astonishing industry and actvity. He cut roads and marched his troops to the important points, which he seized. With an unerring military eye, and profound judgement, he selected and fortified such posts and such only as would, inevitably secure his conquests, and afford the most sure protection of his army and of our extensive frontier settlements. At every step in this country, every unprejudiced mind will more and more admire the movements and achievements of the army conducted by this veteran, and truly wise and great General.

By occupying Fort Wayne, the communication between Lake Erie and the Ohio through the channels of the Maumee and the Wabash, (which is the shortest and most direct water route from Buffaloe to the Mississippi River) was cut off or completely commanded.

The Wabash River, which rises in Ohio, runs north past Fort Recovery, enters Indiana about ten miles from that post and continuing its course northwestwardly, approaches Fort Wayne within 18 miles, when it turns more to the southwest, running diagonally across the state of Indiana, and receiving in its course numerous and important tributary streams, until it reaches the line that separates Indiana from Illinois, in lat. 40, thence meandering into Illinois, and back into Indiana in a southerly direction, discharges its waters into the Ohio river.

The little Wasbash rises in an elevated swamp prairie, 6 miles south of Fort Wayne, and joins the Wabash 18 miles from thence—thus in high stages of the water a portage of only six miles carries merchandize from the head of the Maumee, into the navigable waters of the Wabash and vice versa; from whence floating with the current, it may either supply the interior wants of the country, or proceed to New-Orleans, or lake Erie.

Through a part of the above mentioned swamp, which is very extensive, a canal might very easily be cut, six miles long, uniting the Wabash to the St. Mary's a little above its junction; and from what I saw and learned from others, it is my opinion that the swamp might afford water sufficient for purposes of canal navigation.

By the treaties of 1817 and 18, (mentioned in a former letter) lands in the state of Indiana, to the amount of from four to six millions acres (lying principally on the left bank of the Wabash and extending from the new line N. E. of Wayne, and south and west to former purchases) were ceded to the United States.

These lands are charmingly situated in point of climate; their soil is mostly of the very first quality—the country is well watered and well-timbered, and lying on and near the Wabash, enjoys immense advantages. Emigrants from the northern and eastern states, to this section of the country, as well as the new purchase in Ohio, will find it to be their interests and their comfort too, to go to Buffalo, and up the lake to Fort Meigs, 28 miles within the Maume Bay, and from thence up that river to the mouth of the Auglaize or Fort Wayne, and so on to their place of destination. Early in the spring of the year is the best time for emigration that way, as the streams are then full and they will find an easy and sure navigation, even in its present unimpaired state.

The country about Fort Wayne is very fertile; the situation is commanding and healthy, and here will arise a town of great importance; which must become an immense depot.

The Fort is now only a small stockade; no troops are stationed here, and less than thirty dwelling house, occupied by French and American families, form the whole settlement; but as soon as the land shall be surveyed and offered for sale, inhabitants will pour from all quarters into this future thorough fare, between New-York and the Mississippi, Missouri, &c. &c.

The unlooked for progress of this stupendous work, the New-York Grand Canal, a work of the most momentous consequences to the people of the western country, and to the Union of the United States, whereby the countries bordering on the lakes are to be bound by the strongest of all ties, interest; to the Atlantic states, electrifies the citizens of this country who now behold themselves transported, as it were, with their rich possessions near the ocean & bless its proprietors and supporters.

To morrow morning it is my intention to start for fort Defiance, in company with B. F. Stickney, Esq. late Indian agent, a man of worth, sense and science, and well acquainted in these parts; now a resident at Port Lawrence near the Maume Bay.

Intending to write you from Fort Defiance, I am &c. &c.

J. RILEY."

DIALOGUE,

BETWEEN TWO NEIGHBORS.

Scene—A Bar room in the City.

Reason. Good morrow neighbour Thoughtles; I see you have the newspaper. Pray what news this morning?

Thoughtless. O nothing, only the d—d printer is plaguing us for money again. I only owe him three dollars; and he has sent for it a half a dozen times; and is now dunning in his paper.

Reason. A great shame too for you not to pay such a trifling sum. He had use for the money, no doubt, or he would not have asked for it.

Thoughtless. Use for the d—l; he must be very poor indeed, if he has to send a mile for two or three dollars. Besides, I consider it an insult to be bored in this way by a printer. Does he think 'll run off Zounds! I'll go and give up his paper.

Reacon. I always thought you had more sense than to express yourself in this manner. The printer had no thought of your running off, but he cannot live without being paid for his labour; and no doubt he tried a hundred before he sent to you, and received the same answer you gave him.

Thoughtless. I don't care if he ask'd a thousand; and I can't see what great use he has for so much money, at any rate! his expenses are nothing; and besides, money is too scarce with us now, to give to him.

Reason. There's another absurd remark. I know a printer's expenses,(who publishes a paper but once a week) amounts to upwards of twelve dollars a week for workmen, nearly the same sum for paper and ink; besides a family to maintain and other expenses. Now, if this can be all done without money, I'll give up.

Thoughtless. Well suppose now he does incur all these expenses which would amount to upwards of 1000 dols. a year, and he has 3 or 400 subscribers with advertising custom, it must be devilish strange if he is not well paid for printing a parcel of nonsense.

Reason. There's no reason in you, that's plain or you would not use such language. If the printer even had the support you mention, and his subscribers would all treat him as you do, what would become of him. If he were a man possessing an independent fortune, he might work two or three years for NOTHING; but even that would be unjust; this money put on interest and still be accumulating while by leaving it stand he is daily loosing by failures and removels.

Thoughtless. Hang it, I believe your words are correct. I'll go and pay him. But here he comes. Landlord! give us a bottle of wine, we must have a swig together.

Reason. Money's not scarce with you now—that bottle of wine would nearly pay the printer one year.

Thoughtless. Hush! here he comes, and I may expect to be dunn'd again.

REVOLUTIONARY INCIDENT.

With the permission of the author says (the Petersburg Intelligencer,) we copy the following Patriotic Song, from the last No. of the 'Selections of Music,' now publishing in this town.

This song is founded on an occurrence which happened during the revolutionary war. A party of British had fortified themselves in a large house belonging to Mrs. MOTTE, a widow lady of South Carolina. The fort was attacked by a detachment of the American army under Lee and Marion, whose head quarters were at a house which Mrs. Motte then occupied in the neighborhood of the fort. A large party of British had approached near to relieve the fort. These sad alternatives was only left to the American commanders, to retreat or burn the mansion of their patriotic hostess. Mrs. M. seeing bows and arrows prepared, which she deemed inadequate to execute the intended purpose, produced with a smiling countenance an elegant bow, which had been sent from the East Indies, a present to her husband. The first arrow from which communicated fire to the roof, the mansion was destroyed; and the British compelled to an unconditional surrender.

See Lee's Memoirs, 2d. vol. 76th page.

Fair MOTTE, among heroes and patriots, thy name
Shall fill a bright niche in the temple of fame,
Which mothers delighted, with pleasure shall view,
And teach their young daughters to imitate you,
Arouse their young sons to advance with the brave,
Facing danger and death, their lov'd country to save.
Arouse their young sons, &c.

Securely to wait for the fast coming hour,
When hosts of his warriors should rush from afar
To lower the pride of America's star—
Hark! how the woods ring with the bugle's wild note!
Hark! how the woods, &c.

Now eagerly hast'ning to council are seen
The chiefs of the star spangl'd banner convene;
What shall they resolve?—or to strike one bold blow,
Or to fly in despair from a half conquer'd foe?
Ah! what can they do 'mid these thick'ning alarms,
Can they storm the strong fort with inadequate arms?
Ah! what can they do, &c.

Such a bow not the far shooting Parthian could boast—
Bend, bend its tough horns, let Freedom inspire,
And pierce yon dome with an arrow of fire;
My turrets and halls in red ruins may glow,
But my roof never shelter America's foe.
My turrets and halls, &c.

SORE THROATS.

At this season of the year, when many people are afflicted with that dangerous and distressing complaint, a sore throat, the following Receipt for its cure is said to be very useful:—Take a glass of olive oil, half a glass of spirits of turpentine, mix them together, and rub the throat externally, wearing flannel round it at the same time. It proves most effectual when applied early. Sweet oil will answer equally as well.

PITTSBURGH.

Friday, Jan. 28, 1820.

We are assured by Robert Graham Esq. treasurer of Allegheny county, that the impressions of 'A Freeholder,' are entirely incorrect, and that he is not fairly indebted to the state any thing. We publish an extract of a letter from a gentleman of standing, in Harisburgh, who was his agent in his business, which shews that he is now entitled to 800 dollars of a credit in addition to what is stated in the Auditor's report. He has also written to Mr. Brackenridge for a full statement. We believe that there are many circumstances which combine to throw considerable difficulties in the way of an officer's punctuality; amongst others the scarcity of such funds as will answer to remit or deposit is not the least serious. We believe that Mr. Graham has laboured under this last inconvenience to a great degree. We cannot help saying at the same time that 'A Freeholder' was not influenced by any personal feeling towards Mr. Graham; he read the report of the Auditor and on that report alone was his communication founded. We hope the business will be satisfactorily elucidated, for it must be allowed by all who are acquainted with our affairs, that every citizen has a right to investigate it.'

We were promised a reply to 'A Freeholder,' but the communication has not been received.

Extract of a letter from Samuel Douglas, Esq. of Harrisburg, to Robert Graham, Esq. treasurer of this county, dated Dec. 23, 1819.

"I would have written on receipt of your letter, but I have had a very busy week in court. I paid the eight hundred dollars I received from Mr. Smith to Mr. Brackenridge who has paid it into the state treasury, and promised me to send you the receipt or inform you of it. This I believe with what I paid for you before will nearly satisfy all the tavern licences. I would advise you regularly every Mayor's court, and court of quarter sessions to return, while the grand juries are in session, all those to whom licences have been granted by the courts but not taken out. A strict adherence to this will save your commission, and much cost and trouble."

Dreadful Accident.——On Tuesday night last a poor man with his wife, who lived in a small temporary hut in Allegheny town, went out to visit a neighbor a few rods distant. On their return home about nine o'clock at night, the wretched father discovered his humble dwelling in which he had left his four children, in flames; he immediately ran to the house but arrived too late; three of his little ones were burnt to death, and the fourth so much injured as to die next day!

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, Jan. 17.

REPORTS.

Mr. Wilkins had leave to present a bill, a further supplement to the act for making a turnpike from Pittsburgh thro' Butler and Mercer to Meadville.

The bill, an act relative to mortgages, was read a third time and passed.

TUESDAY, Jan. 18.

Mr. Orr, reported on the contested election of John B. Trevor, with a bill of costs.

The committee selected on the 13th ult. to try and determine the validity of the election of John B. Trevor, the sitting member of this house from Fayette county,

Report, That they have taken the petition presented on this subject into consideration, and having heard the allegations, as well of the petitioners as of the said John B. Trevor, and having carefully examined the documents, and duly considered the testimony, it appeared that the said John B. Trevor had 987 legal votes, and that Morris Morris had also 987 legal votes. Your committee therefore, of opinion that neither of the said persons are duly elected, do declare and adjudge that the election of the said John B. Trevor is illegal and void.

The Speaker then declared the seat of John B. Trevor to be vacated.

The bills, 1. A supplement to the act for the relief of insolvent debtors; 2 An act to regulate the practice of Physic and Surgery within the Commonwealth; were read a third time and passed.

The following letter to the Speaker was read.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18, 1820.

SIR—Having understood that a statement has been made to the House of Representatives upon the subject of my conduct before the committee of Inquiry on the 12th inst. I am desirous before any order shall be taken, respectfully to offer a few words to the house on that subject.

Mr. Todd, the gentleman in whose person it has been imagined I had invaded the privileges of the house, having voluntarily declared to me that he had no intention to cast any reflection on me, nor injure my feelings, he and I are placed again on terms of perfect amity.

I cannot but suppose that I have been in this matter misunderstood by many persons. My respect for the house induces me to say with great sincerity, that I never had thought of invading the privileges of a member, much less of the remotest disrespect for the committee or the house, but that, on the contrary, my constant intentions have been to comport myself with the greatest propriety.

I have the honor to be very respectfully your obedient serv't,
A. S. COXE.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 19.

PETITIONS.

Mr. Brackenridge, of the commissioners of Allegheny county, complaining of grievances under the law for educating poor children, and praying that the commissioners may be empowered to select the school and contract with teacher. To Brackenridge, Randall, Bower.

REPORT.

Mr. Wilkins, a supplement to the act for the erection of a State penitentiary opposite Pittsburgh and for other purposes.

On Thursday, the 13th inst. in the House of Representatives, Mr. Lehman from the committee on roads and inland navigation, reported a bill entitled "An act providing for the appointment of a board of commissioners, and pledging funds for internal improvements.

The 1st section provides for the appointment of a board to consider and digest plans, &c.

The 2d, 3d, 4th, and 5th sections direct a survey of the territory which separates the different navigable streams of the state; levels, &c. to be taken; plans, drafts and models to be executed; quantity of water upon the different levels to be ascertained; estimate of expense to be made; report to be made to the Legislature, &c.

The 6th section authorizes the commissioners to appoint agents surveyors, &c.

The 7th section pledges and appropriates dollars annually for ten years in aid of roads, bridges, canals, &c. The money to be raised by the sale of bank stock, by the collection of arrearages due for lands, or by a loan on the credit of the state.

The 8th section provides for the reception of proposals to contract for carrying the purposes of the bill into execution.

The 9th section directs the commissioners to ascertain as early as possible, the terms upon which the different turnpike companies will allow waggons with wheels of different widths to pass to and from the city of Philadelphia, toll free.

The 10th section provides a compensation for the commissioners, &c.

Captures by Lord Cochrane.—It seems to be confirmed, that we are not the only nation whose commerce has suffered by Lord Cochrane. We copy the following from the London Courier of the first of November.

'It turns out to be perfectly true, although the fact was at first generally doubted in London, that Lord Cochrane has made some important captures on the S. W. coast of South America. The letters communicating this intelligence, are dated from St. Jago de Chili, 17th of July, and were brought by the Royal Sovereign whaler. The vessels captured consist it is stated, of eight merchantmen, laden with valuable cargoes and specie; and the news is the more important in London, because nearly all of them were insured to the full amount at Lloyd's.—These vessels were under the convoy of the Spanish frigate called the Cleopatra; the action in which they were captured, took place off Payta, considerably to the north of Lima, and near the great Bay or Guayaquil.'

From the same paper we take the following:

'Interesting advices have been received to day from Madeira, to the 23d of Sept. They state that the squadron recently fitted out under the command of Sir Thomas Hardy, arrived there on the 18th Sept. in eight days from Plymouth. The men of war, consisting of the Superb, Admiral Sir T. Hardy; the Hyperion, capt. Searle, and the Venguer, Captain Maitland, put to sea again on the following day for South America.

Considerable interest has been excited relative to the destination of this armament. When the ships left Portsmouth, with sealed orders, to be opened in a certain latitude, it was confidently stated that they would first proceed to Cuba;—but it now appears that they have actually left Madeira for Rio Janeiro, and that the British Envoy Mr. Thornton, is on board sir Thomas Hardy's ship. It is to be inferred, therefore, that the destination is to the southward, but whether they will double Cape Horn is yet a matter of doubt, not known even to the officers of the squadron at the time it left Madeira We have seen a letter from an officer on board the Venguer, who speaks of the preparations made in the three ships to meet an enemy, should any such present himself.'

Since the above was put in type, we learn by an arrival from Rio Janeiro, that the squadron arrived at Rio, with Mr. Thornton and family, after 47 days passage.

SPAIN.

Letters from Madrid to the 5th of Nov. have been received. Another revolution in the ministry had taken place. The celebrated Lozano Torres, who has made a figure so distinguished for several years has at length fallen from the high station of 'minister of grace and justice.' The minister of the finances, Imaz, has been also removed, and this new turn of the wheel has brought Antonio Gonzale Salmons into the charge of the finances:—this is the brother in law of Don Onis. No minister had left Madrid for America, nor was such a mission even expected to take place before August, 1820—if then. The disease had disappeared at Cadiz; but distress pervaded all Spain—commerce and agriculture all paralyzed.

John Rowan and John J. Crittendon' commissioners appointed by the legislature of this state, and Felix Grundy and Samuel Brown, commissioners on the part of Tennessee, for the purpose of settling the dispute relative to the boundary between the two states have met, and we are sorry to state, have adjourned without accomplishing their object.—We have not been able to learn the particulars, as they have made no report as yet.—Frankfort Commentator.

EXTRAORDINARY PROCEEDINGS.

One of the members of the present house of representatives in this state was indicted as guilty of a felony in the state of Indiana, about two years ago, for seizing and bringing away his own slave.—Since the commencement of the present session of the General Assembly, the Governor of Indiana has for the first time, made a demand on the Governor of this state to deliver up this gentleman for trial What does Governor Jennings mean? Does he intend to insult the state of Kentucky by dragging her representatives from the legislative floor to be tried as criminals for reclaiming their own property? We will not indulge in the remarks which this occasion suggests; but if our sister state wishes to maintain the friendly relations which ought ever to exist between the members of our confederacy, we trust she will prevent the repetition of such demands.

A bill is already before our house of representatives to check this abuse of the salutary power to reclaim fugitives from justice, vested in the states by the constitution of the union.—Fred. Arg.

The Huntsville paper states, that Lt. Lyman, had just arrived from the military road which is now opening from Tennessee to lake Ponchartrain, and reported that it was in a state of rapid improvement. The troops engaged on the upper end of the road had crossed the Tombigbee river, 122 miles south of the Tennessee, and had established a ferry on the former, On the lower end the troops have advanced about 40 miles east of Pearl river, and the two parties were supposed to be within 140 miles of each other.

The Southern mail of Monday, after making two unsuccessful attempts to cross the North River, did not reach Powles Hook till yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, it was then taken on in the Coach, but finding the causeway inundated with water and loaded with masses of ice. Messrs. Lyons put it in a sleigh, and after great difficulty, they succeeded in reaching midway the causeway in the forenoon, where they met the stage from Philadelphia and exchanged mails. The embankments on the lower side of the causeway are entirely destroyed, and from two to four acres of ice is supposed to have drifted into the roads. In some places the cakes are piled 8 or 10 feet high—the superintendant with from 20 to 30 hands are employed in breaking down the ice and levelling the road to render it passable. The southern mail reached the Post Office about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.—Phil. Gaz.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.

BIRD ISLAND.—The effects of the late gale on this island, in Buzzard's bay, on which there has been a light house lately erected by order of government, were very severe. A letter from the keeper of the light to the collector of this port, states that every thing moveable was swept from the island. During the night of the 30th ult. such was the severity of the wind and the height of the tide, that the island was for several hours completely under water. The keeper was obliged to remove with his family to the light house for safety. The island he says, no longer retains its former appearance, being mostly covered with stones and gravel, in some places two or three feet deep, in other places the ground is torn up to a great depth.

FROM THE CONNECTICUT MIRROR.

MANUFACTURES OF CONNECTICUT.

At a meeting of a number of gentlemen from various parts of the state who are friendly to the encouragement of national industry, lately held in this city—a committee was appointed to procure returns from all parts of the state of the present condition of different manufacturing establishments; and although the returns are deficient, and many establishments are known not to have been reported, yet the following result appears:—

COTTON.

There are more than sixty cotton manufacturing establishments, containing 50,000 spindles—cost, $1,500,000; are capable if all were employed of manufacturing nine millions nine hundred and sixty thousand yards per annum, of common shifting, and other goods of like quality; of employing ten thousand persons exclusive of weavers; of paying out annually, eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars for labor.

WOOLEN.

There are thirty six woolen manufactories, (exclusive of five hundred clothier's shops,) which are worth at the present valuation, $400,000—these are capable of producing goods at present value to the amount of $400,000 per annum—will work one hundred and sixty thousand pounds of wool per annum—will pay annually, two hundred and eighty thousand dollars for labor.

IRON.

This article is not less important than cotton and woolen. With suitable encouragement (by protecting duties) from 4 to 500,000 dollars value might be annually made—a great proportion of its value would be paid out for the labor in manufacturing.

GLASS, POWDER AND PAPER.

Returns have been made from very few towns, but from East Hartford only, it appears that the capital employed in these three branches amounts to $80,000.

CHEAP LIVING.

Letters from Italy, published in a London paper, giving an account of Palermo, which has a population of 150,000 says—'A small room, ten feet square, lodges a whole family of eight or ten persons with their stock of furniture, &c.—Among the lower classes there is no such thing as a family meal; what they eat they take in their hands and make their repast while walking in the street, and afterwards take their rest on the flat pavement, in some public place where they frequently pass the night.'

Now in order to put a stop to further evil, he proposes to the states and territories, to make laws, punishing capitally, the presidents and directors of such banks as will not redeem their notes in silver; and he, the said Colonel Leitendorfer, will hold himself in readiness to march at a moment's warning, to put the hempen cord about the necks of the Rag-barons, gratis.

TOWN OF AMERICA.

THE undersigned, owner of a large number o squares, half squares, and lots in the above own, and of about five hundred acres of land adjoining to it, proposes to sell to actual settlers, any number of lots, not exceeding one hundred; and several out lots of twenty acres each, on terms highly calculated to promote the interest of the purchasers. He is also authorized to sell on liberal terms and in small tracts, seven thousand acres of excellent land, lying about the Town and in its immediate neighborhood.

This town is situated in the fork of the Ohio and Mississippi, on the bank of the former, and on the first piece of high ground above their junction.

No person of any reflection has ever looked upon a map of North America without being struck with the mighty confluence of water which is exhibited at the junction of the Ohio and Mississippi: and the natural sentiment that a great city must grow up at that point has only been checked by the apprehension that the place was annually inundated. The apprehension was incorrect. The town scite and the back country are free from inundation, and both are now settled and are constantly increasing in population. The town has been selected for the seat of Justice for the county of Alexander in which it is situated, and both the county and circuit courts are, and will be held there. The neighboring country is well settled, not by a detached population, but by connected settlements spreading into the interior of the state of Illinois.

The mind is therefore free to expatiate upon the advantages of this situation, and the undersigned can leave it to any man of sense and candor to say whether any point upon our continent has ever presented a fairer prospect of a greater inland commercial city?

Situated on the first high ground above the confluence of the noblest streams in America—at a point from which large steam boats can at all times descend to New Orleans—with a rich back country to support it--and a numerous population now covering the adjacent country, and it is difficult to assign a reason why this town should not in a few years rank with the first in America.

Besides its water communications it may reasonably count upon the advantage of seeing pass through it the great road which will be required to facilitate the intercourse between the Upper and the Lower Mississippi. Authentic information authorizes the assertion that the country south of the Ohio is entirely practicable for a road, which can be opened across the west ends of Kentucky and Tennessee through the late Chickasaw purchase and lead to New Orleans over a direct route parallel to the course of the Mississippi.

The undersigned will be upon the spot to sell to actual settlers during the balance of the winter and spring months. He prefers to sell upon the spot, when purchasers can see with their own eyes the advantages of the situation, and therefore will be present at a time when the revival of commerce upon the river and the passing of steam boats will make it convenient for all those to visit the place and examine it for themselves who may wish to become interested in it.

He is also authorised to say that the proprietors, or a part of them, will sell at auction, on the ground, on the third Monday in April next, being the first day of the Circuit court, ONE HUNDRED LOTS; one third of the purchase money to be paid in hand, one third in six, and one in twelve months, to raise a fund for improving the place, to which the whole proceeds of the 100 lots will be applied.

Charles Postly's Patent

COOKING STOVE

OR PORTABLE KITCHENS.

The different sizes are calculated to do the cooking for small or large families, public houses and Steam-boats, and are so extremely simple in their construction as to be managed with ease by a child, twelve or fourteen years of age.

With this Stove may be cooked, by baking, roasting, boiling and by steam, a sufficiency of meats, fish, fowls and vegetables, to make a dinner for from 5 to 100 persons, while at the same time may be baked from 1 to 8 loaves of bread.

A wooden vessel containing from twenty to fifty gallons of water, can also be kept boiling, for the purposes of washing, &c. All these are done simultaneously and with one small fire.

The circumstance of these Stoves having got into very general use at the eastward, within 2 or 3 years past, particularly in the cities of New-York and Baltimore, with the rapid sale and general approbation they have met with since their first introduction last winter, west of the mountains, are sufficient testimonials of their utility and advantage.

The subscribers having purchased of the patentee the right for making and vending said Stoves in the western country, are ready to execute with punctuality and despatch, all orders at his Manufactory, as above, where also may be had, Cast and Sheet Iron Stoves, suitable for Parlours, Offices, Stores & Bed-rooms, to which boilers may be attached if wanted.

They intend to receive, forward and dispose of all goods entrusted to their care, (especially articles of domestick produce and manufacture) on the most reasonable terms, and hope to give satisfaction to those who may please to favour them with their custom and patronge. To Emigrants.

HAVING associated myself with a considerable company for the purpose of settling a new place in the state of Illinois, opposite the mouth of White river and Patoka, at the foot of the Grand Rapids of the Wabash, (MOUNT CARMEL) with an intention to remove to it, as soon as practicable, I have contracted for the making and burning of 150,000 brick, which I wish put up next season into buildings, and the Bricklayer's and carpenter's work undertaken conjointly, the plaistering and whitewashing included. Lands adjoining the Town, and town lots, at cash prices, and cash, a proportion of each will be given in payment when the work is completed.

Having entered lands for the accommodation of settlers favourable to the views of the settlement, a considerable body adjoining the settlement and town lands, divided into lots of from 10 to 100 and 160 acres each may be had at the Congress prices, with the exception of the interest on the money paid, and a small advance to defray expences, &c.

I wish to employ some persons to enclose or clear lands for me, for which I will pay in lands at cash prices. I have a body of open and timbered lands, that I would lease from 5 to 10 years on advantageous terms to emigrants unable to purchase. A convenient farm to let, by an early application to the Agent may be had.

A canal for boats and water works around the Grand Rapids of the Wabash, a company is forming to commence opening next season, that will afford employment for labourers, and no inconsiderable inducement to capatilist to invest their funds in the establishment. Considerable encouragement and aid have already been tendered for that purpose by emigrants from the Eastern States. The river is open for navigation from this place to New-Orleans all the year.

Application may be made to WM. BEAUCHAMP, the Agent for the establishment, residing in Mount Carmel, or to the subscriber, residing at present in New-port. None need apply but moral characters.
